According to the data provided by Turkish Statistical Institute, American Dollar has been the only money-saving investment tool on a monthly basis in September. According to the report 'Real Rate of Return of Financial Investment Instruments September/2011' supplied by TSI, the highest real return in October occurred in with the rate of 0.30 percent when reduced with PPI. When reduced with PPI, among investment tools, bullion by 5.90 percent, deposit interest by 1.07 percent, the ISE 100 Index by 0.85 percent and euro by 0.15 percent made their investors lost.

When reduced by CPI, bullion by 7.42 percent, deposit interest by 2.67 percent, the ISE 100 Index by 2.45 percent, euro by 1.33 percent dollar by 1.76 percent made the investors lost.

In three-month evaluation, the billion gave a real return to their investors by 11.36 percent when reduced by PPI and by 11.56 percent when reduced by CPI.
According to the six-month evaluation, the billion made their investors win by 28.71 percent when reduced by PPI and by 28.41 percent when reduced by CPI.

At the same period, the ISE 100 Index has been the most losing investment tool their investors by 19.40 percent when reduced by PPI and by 19.58 percent when reduced by CPI.

When evaluated on an annual basis, financial investments are ordered as bullion, U.S. Dollar, Euro, Deposit Rate and ISE 100 Index as per to the maximum real return rates.

When reduced with PPI, bullion by 41.46 percent, U.S. Dollar by 14.43 percent and Euro by 12.64 percent provided their investors with real return.

On the other hand, deposit interest by 4.46 percent and ISE 100 Index by 25.45 percent made the investors lost.

When reduced with CPI, while bullion by 47.93 percent, U.S. Dollar by 19.66 percent and Euro by 17.79 percent made real return for the investors, deposit rate by 0.09 percent and ISE 100 Index by 22.04 percent made the investors lost.